ABSTRACT

This 78-page fact book provides a brief overall picture of Horry-Georgetown Technical College (SC) in a "snapshot" fashion. Included in the book are a comprehensive overview of the curricula, relevant demographics and other information, and facts and figures that may be pertinent to a wide variety of readers. Since 1966, the college has provided accessible education to its local communities with an emphasis on the knowledge, skills and experiences necessary to achieve both personal career goals and meet the needs of local employers. The faculty profile indicates that in 1995, 49 percent of the faculty were female and 51 percent were male. The college serves more than 3,200 students through the regular curricula alone, which consists of 24 Associate's degrees in technical areas ranging from Civil Engineering and Computer Technology to Nursing, and Occupational and Physical Therapy. Horry-Georgetown (SC) offers 4 diploma programs and 22 certificate programs, both of which parallel the curricula offered in the associates degree programs. Enrollment figures, a student profile, retention rates, and post-graduate accomplishments are presented for each degree, diploma, and certificate field. Other programs include adult education and GED preparation and JTPA-funded courses. Revenue and expenditure tables show how much revenue goes to the college, and where it comes from. A section on the service area provides demographic information about the local counties. (AF)

In addition to this formal statement, the College understands its purpose and guides its development in terms of its legal position, its specific service area, its academic programs, its student body, and its growth limitations.

HISTORY OF HORRY-GEORGETOWN TECHNICAL COLLEGE

The idea of the Technical Education System began with former Governor Ernest F. Hollings. He was convinced the solutions to South Carolina's economic problems lay in its greatest resource--people.

Hollings initiated the entire system by appointing a joint legislative committee to devise a training system that would attract new, diversified industry to the state.

The study and subsequent recommendations of the committee resulted in a legislative charter which initiated the Technical Education system in South Carolina in 1961.

The program has grown into a state wide network of sixteen community colleges, with Horry-Georgetown being the eighth to be established. The 1963 General Assembly passed legislation which created the Horry-Georgetown Commission for Technical Education. This Commission is the policy-making body for the college.

The Horry-Marion-Georgetown Technical Education Center was created by leaders in Horry, Marion, and Georgetown counties in 1966. In 1968, Marion County withdrew.

The Horry-Georgetown Technical Education Center grew and prospered. In 1975, the General Assembly approved the Center's request to change its name to Horry-Georgetown Technical College.

Your community college serves more than 3,200 students enrolled in its regular curriculum programs and more than 11,000 people are served by Continuing Education courses and seminars.

STUDENT DEVELOPMENT AND SERVICES

PHILOSOPHY

The Student Services Division reflects the "community college" mission of Horry-Georgetown Technical College which is to provide educational opportunities for the people of Horry and Georgetown counties to acquire the knowledge, skills, and experiences necessary for success in their chosen careers. The mission of the Student Services Division is to help create a learning environment which maximizes the development of the whole student and enables the college to become a more effective educational community. In partnership with the instructional staff, Student Services strives to offer quality programs and services which complement the educational process and provide opportunities for student development.

ORIENTATION

Orientation programs for new and potential students are conducted each summer on all three campuses. Each orientation is publicized, individual invitations are sent, and all new students are expected to attend. Department heads for each curriculum are present to meet, advise, and register new students. Information regarding financial aid, academic policies and procedures, and additional student support services are provided to students. A separate program for parents and families is conducted and campus tours are available to all.

FINANCIAL AID

The Office of Financial Aid and Veterans Affairs seeks to assist students in applying for various types of financial aid such as scholarships, grants, work-study, and loans. The financial aid process begins early in the calender year and continues throughout the academic year. Students are encouraged to apply for assistance as early as possible in order to receive timely awarding.

COUNSELING

Counseling Services play a vital role in creating a college environment that maximizes student success and the total development of the student. Confidential academic, personal, and career counseling is available to enrolled and prospective students on each of the college's campuses. Appointments are encouraged; walk-ins are accommodated based on counselor availability.

Personal Counseling: Counselors are available for confidential consultation and assistance with educational and personal problems which may be interfering with progress towards the student's goals. To support the mental health needs of students, a network of community resources and referral agencies has been established.

Academic Counseling: The focus of academic counseling is on the retention of students from the point of initial contact with the college through time of graduation. During the admission process, counselors work individually with students to assist them in clarifying educational goals, providing interpretation of assessments, and choosing an appropriate major. Counselors continue to support and facilitate student success by providing retention counseling and offering numerous educational and informative seminars/workshops on topics including test-taking strategies, time management, study skills, and stress management.

STUDENT DEVELOPMENT AND SERVICES

Career Counseling: Students today must be equipped with the newest and most updated career information so that they will be marketable individuals. Career choices in this decade will be more exciting; however, more complex and demanding fields will force participants to make wiser choices. In an economy that is ever-changing and becoming increasingly technological, individuals must be prepared with high entry-level skills as well as the ability to shift career focus when appropriate. Career/life work planning choices are not simple and not decisions that should be entered into lightly. The Counseling Center at Horry-Georgetown Technical College invites all students, prospective students, and alumni to visit the counseling center to help them make educated decisions about the career fields that are available to them or to help them make informed decisions about changing or upgrading their present careers. Career assessment and counseling also are available to students at the Georgetown and Grand Strand campuses. In the counseling center, six resource areas are available in which students can work individually with a trained counselor to make the most informed career choices. These resource areas are:

Assessment of personality, interests, values, and abilities;

Interpretation of assessment instruments as well as personal counseling;

Career exploration with informational interviewing activities as well as a computer-assisted guidance system;

Job search assistance offering professional resume development as well as seminars on interview techniques, job seeking skills, and professional image projection;

Career resource materials including Dictionary of Occupational Titles, Occupational Outlook Handbook, and many more;

University transfer information including catalogs from senior institutions in the country and articulation agreements with over fifty colleges and universities in the region for the student who is considering continuing his/her education beyond the associate degree level.

Seminars And Workshops
Counseling Services offers informative and educational workshops and seminars for HGTC students on topics such as:

- interviewing techniques
- student success
- adjustment and transition issues
- test-taking strategies
- time management
- study skills
- stress management
- resume development

Counselors are available to facilitate career and educational planning workshops and seminars as a community service.

JOB PLACEMENT SERVICES

To assist students and graduates in locating full-time and part-time employment, the college offers a job placement assistance service. Services include contacting prospective employers to arrange off-campus and on-campus job interviews.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

The Student Activities Office offers leadership programs, intramural sports, and cultural activities on all three campuses. The office coordinates a variety of student organizations and clubs, including a chapter of the international honor society, Phi Theta Kappa. The college also has an intercollegiate golf team and belongs to Division II of the Eastern Carolina Community College Athletics Conference. The Student Activities Office supervises the allocation of student activity funds.

COOPERATIVE EDUCATION

Cooperative education is designed to enhance the student's learning experience by integrating lessons of the classroom with "real world" employment activity. To accomplish this the college and business community cooperate to give the student work experience in jobs related to his/her major.

EDUCATIONAL TALENT SEARCH PROGRAM

The college's Educational Talent Search Program is designed to serve middle and high school students in the rural areas of Horry and Georgetown counties. The goals of the program are to support the continuation of students from middle school to high school, to increase the graduation rate from high school, and to promote enrollment in post-secondary institutions.

SERVICES FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

HGTC is committed to providing an accessible environment for students with disabilities. The primary purpose of services for students with disabilities, which is a function of counseling services, is to improve the educational development of disabled students through the understanding and support of the campus environment. This mission must be accomplished through direct assistance to disabled students, encouragement of their independence, creation and maintenance of an accessible physical environment, and the provision of a supportive psychological environment so that students may achieve their educational objectives.

The college understands that students with disabilities may require unique appropriate academic accommodations and must have their needs assessed on a case-by-case basis. Inquiries about services may be directed to the Director of Counseling, who will review student's disability documentation and, in a confidential setting with the student, will develop an educational accommodation plan.
